Four Kinds of Baseball Put Brooklyn Robbies in Front in Sizzling Dash Toward the Pennant and World Series!

CHENEY IS ONE OF THE DISCARDS WHO BECAME A WHIRLWIND UNDER ROBINSON.

(This is the fourth and last article telling how the Brooklyn Robbies are winning their way into a world series, written by Harold Johnson, West Virginian's special sport writer, who sat on Brooklyn bench during several games to get the real inside dope.—Editor.)

BY HAROLD JOHNSON

BROOKLYN, Sept. 29.—Every pennant-winning manager wears the mantle of a miracle man and many reasons are given in awarding the title each year. I found one that fits the case of Wilbert Robinson during my sojourn alongside the bighearted wonder worker on the bench with Brook-right-hander on the staff, was dropped by the Clubs. An injury to his right knee and not trouble with his salary arm cost Larry his berth under Bresnahan.

Rube Marquard and Chief Myers were considered through as Giants when Robbie grabbed them. They came back strong. Ivan Olson was let go by Cleveland and Cincinnati. He's a star on the Brooklyn infield. Mike Mowrey, called through three years ago owing to a bad knee, found a berth with Robbie after the Federals closed up shop. He's an able third baseman.

Jimmy Johnston wasn't good enough to stick with the White Sox or Cubs. He's the most dangerous baserunner in the league now and a great lead-off man.

These castoffs have found "Welcome" written on the bench presided over by Robinson. They're working in harmony and working their heads off to make good and baffle the judgment of other managers who counted them unfit to linger in the big show.

"Not So Bad Being Laid Up"

Cheerful? Why not? Scheduled for a couple of weeks more, but I should worry!

Why, that little old wreck and my smashed leg have brought me a change from the "road"—all the comforts of home—and $200 every four weeks from my AETNA ACCIDENT POLICY, together with payment of the surgeon's fee. Not to mention the $25 I'll get every week while I'm lame-ducking in the open air.

Pretty soft, eh? Especially when a fellow works only on commission.

Seriously, all of you boys ought to

AETNA-IZE

You're not worrying the banks with deposits any more than I did. And when the accident breaks, your good old Aetna income keeps away the wolf and debt, and makes you independent. No sponging for me!

The cost? Honestly, too small to talk about.

Before the flax gets 'round to you, better phone, write or call today on my agent—

PITT PROSPECT RECEIVES SETBACK

The Loss of Ted Fry Will Be Very Greatly Felt.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 29.—Football prospects at the University of Pittsburgh received a setback during the past week in the news that Ted Fry, varsity fullback on the 1914 and 1915 teams, and one of the best players on the squad, would not return to Pitt this year. Fry had completed three years work in the premedical course at the local university, and would have graduated next June at the very head of his class, but a business opening caused a change in his plans, and he now expects to carry a special course at Harvard for one year, going into business next summer. As a versatile, brilliant performer on the gridiron and one of the leading pointwinners on the track squad, his loss will be greatly felt. He had been counted upon to do practically all the punting this year. He leaves college athletics with a spotless record, being recognized as one of the cleanest and most sportsmanlike athletes known in this district.

Daily workouts are being held at Forbes Field, where all the home games are played. The squad returned from the mountain training camp in excellent condition, and the men are apparently in shape to face the stiff October schedule, when Navy, Syracuse and Penn are met on successive Saturdays. The first game of the season, on October 7th, is with Westminster. Immediately after this opening clash, which should present no serious difficulties, Pitt begins the series with its heaviest opponents.

Widespread interest is already in evidence in the game with Penn, to be played at Forbes Field on October 23th. It is expected that this engagement will attract the largest crowd that ever attended an athletic event in Western Pennsylvania. The Associated Press Clubs will meet in Pittsburgh at that time, and it is announced that five thousand alumni of the Philadelphia institution, coming from all parts of the world, will attend this game, while additional reservations in the grand stand have been made for eight hundred students who will accompany the team here. In many respects this is regarded as the most important game on the schedule of either team.

IN a recent talk to his employees, one of the greatest business men said:

"Provide yourself with a smile and an air of prosperity. Wear your best business suit and cheerful necktie. If you have no best suit—buy one. We have to appear prosperous if we are to be prosperous."

That's a pretty practical bit of advice. Don't you think so? And, to make you take this advice to heart, we announce a wonderful assortment of prosperous looking.

THE FLOWERS.

BY CHARLES B. DRISCOLL.

King Solomon in all his togs could not outshine a rose; he looked like 40 cents beside the meanest flower that blows. When Cleopatra decked her out in shocking summer gown, a morning glory on the well blushed red as it looked down. And all the people passing by said, "See the pretty bloom!" The architect of Cleo's gown was filled with blackest gloom. Elizabeth, with ruffs and trains, still wore a wrinkled face, while every wayside violet was full of perfect grace.

I wonder what the flowers think when they see human folk dressed up like scarecrows of the gods, or like inhuman jokes! When human mugs all smeared with paint go grandly sweeping by, I think each bluebell tolls herself, and heaves a heavy sigh. The duds that men and women wear to make themselves look well must cause a great artistic gloom in every flower dell. The cowslip and the buttercup, the unadorned sweet peas—King Solomon in all his togs was not as one of these!

AND MANY A YOUNG MAN DOESN'T KNOW THAT HE IS IN LOVE UNTIL THE GIRL IN THE CASE HANDS HIM THE INFORMATION IN A DIPLOMATIC WAY.

A country editor wrote: "Brother, don't stop your paper just because you don't agree with the editor. The last cabbage you sent us didn't agree with us, either, but we didn't drop you from our subscription list on that account."

INDISCRIMINATE.
